- it is permitted by law and necessary for the fulfilment of contractual obligations in accordance with Art. 6(1) Paragraph 1 (b) of the GDPR.

Certain Personal Data collected by us will also be passed on to and possibly processed by third-party service providers, such as our hosting partners and IT suppliers, external partners assisting us with the support and further development of our IT tools, lawyers, data protection officers, and accountants, as well as by government or auditing authorities. These and other public authorities are entitled to request Personal Data from us to which we are legally obliged to respond in certain cases defined by law. In such cases, your Personal Data may be transmitted to these third parties but only for the purpose of the service in question.

The employees, managers and/or representatives of the above-mentioned service providers or institutions and the specialized service providers appointed by them are obligated to respect the confidential nature of your Personal Data and to use these data only for the purposes for which they were provided.

If necessary, your Personal Data may be passed on to other third parties. This may be the case, for example, if all or part of our business is reorganized, if our activities are transferred or if we are declared bankrupt. It is also possible that Personal Data may need to be transferred in response to a court order or to comply with a specific legal obligation. In this case, we will make reasonable efforts to inform you in advance of such communication to other third parties. However, you will acknowledge and understand that in certain circumstances, this may not be technically or commercially feasible, or that legal restrictions may apply.

In addition, we share Personal Data among OneSpan affiliates and entities for our reporting, service delivery, business operations, direct marketing and communications.

We may also elect to share anonymous or pseudonymous usage data with OneSpan third parties, sub-processors and service providers for the purpose of helping OneSpan in such analysis and improvements. Additionally, OneSpan may share such anonymous or pseudonymous usage data on an aggregate basis in the normal course of operating our business; for example, we may share information publicly to show trends about the general use of our Sites.

We might also share data with third parties where the data has and has not been de-identified or aggregated in a way so it cannot be used to identify you or your end users. We might share Personal Data for marketing purposes with event organizers, marketing services providers and we may also receive Personal Data from such services providers for the organization of events, marketing actions or email/blast campaigns provided such services providers have a legal basis to transfer such Personal Data to OneSpan.

In such cases, these companies must abide by our data protection and security requirements and are not allowed to use Personal Data they receive from us for any other purpose.

Some of our services include links to services of third parties whose data protection practices differ from OneSpan. If you provide Personal Data to any of those services, your data is governed by their Data Protection Statements. In the event of a conflict between a OneSpan Data Protection Statement and the terms of any agreement(s) between a party and OneSpan, the terms of those agreement(s) will prevail.

We determine the appropriate retention period for Personal Data based on applicable legal requirements (such as applicable legal conservation periods or statutes of limitation). After expiry of the applicable retention periods, your Personal Data will be deleted. If there is any Personal Data that we are unable, for technical reasons, to delete entirely from our systems, we will put in place appropriate measures to restrict access and use of such Personal Data as required by applicable law. Website monitoring data are kept for 1 year or longer as per applicable legal requirements.

13. USER PROFILE, PREFERENCES, AND OPT-OUT

To gain full access to certain areas of the Sites, download materials, or subscribe to or participate in certain OneSpan programs, OneSpan may require you to create a user account and maintain a user profile. You can opt-out of electronic communications by clicking the unsubscribe or opt-out link in OneSpan’s marketing communication. You can control your preferences for using the Site including opting into or out of Personal Data for marketing use and certain programs and interests in your user account at Preference Center or by informing OneSpan at privacy@onespan.com.

With your consent, your Personal Data will be added to OneSpan’s internal mailing list so we can furnish you with information about our products and services and OneSpan offerings, events, webinars and other information via email, telemarketing, fax, SMS, and postal mail, as legally permitted. Also, OneSpan may disclose and transfer Personal Data to our marketing or other partners or resellers for the marketing of OneSpan products and services. If you no longer want to receive communications from OneSpan, you are free to withdraw your consent at any time via the Preference Center, however, please note that withdrawal of your consent of processing Personal Data may render OneSpan unable to continue to provide access to certain Sites. If you withdraw your consent, it will not affect the lawfulness of any processing based on your consent before you withdrew it. Some OneSpan Sites may require separate user registrations for you to obtain the services offered on those Sites. Certain OneSpan Sites will permit automatic access to other OneSpan Sites so that by logging into one user account, you may automatically be signed in to other OneSpan Sites. Other OneSpan Sites may have different purposes, uses, and data collection techniques than those indicated in this Statement. Please always review the privacy statement of the OneSpan Site that you access before providing your Personal Data.

Cookies may collect a unique identifier and store user Personal Data such as IP addresses, navigational data, server Personal Data, data transfer times, user preferences, and Personal Data including username and password you provide for a user account you establish.

To manage your privacy preferences, you may configure your Internet browser using the “Help” function in order to alert you when a cookie is sent or used and allow you the option to accept, reject or remove cookies. You can manage interest-based advertising or completely opt-out by indicating your choice in www.aboutads.info/choices. If you reject, disable or remove cookies, you might not be able to access certain pages or important functions on the Site. You may review OneSpan’s Cookie Policy describing OneSpan’s use of cookies in more detail.

Remarketing tags such as a pixel tag or a clear GIF, and universal website tag are snippets of code that OneSpan adds on certain pages of the Site. A tag is a “web beacon” that appears as a clear graphic image of a 1x1 pixel delivered through a web browser or an HTML compliant e-mail client application to a user’s device. OneSpan uses these remarketing tags together with cookies to reach previous Site visitors for marketing activities.

Use of data collected with cookies and remarketing tags is governed by this Statement as to OneSpan’s use, and by the respective service providers’ privacy policies as to their data use.

Locally shared objects, also called “flash cookies,” are pieces of data that websites using Adobe Flash may store on your computer. OneSpan will use the Personal Data collected to find out how you navigate the Site. You may disable this function by referring to www.adobe.com for Personal Data. If you disable or disallow locally shared objects, you might not be able to access certain pages or important functions on the Site.

Internet Protocol (IP) addresses and log files are used to identify server problems, improve Site content, and compile aggregated statistics about Site usage and click-stream data. The Site also uses electronic images, known as web beacons, to help personalize your experience and perform standard Site traffic analysis in a manner similar to the use of cookies. OneSpan reserves the right to introduce new passive tracking technologies and techniques related to the use of the Site, subject to and in accordance with Applicable Data Protection Laws.
